Multicultural Resources for Health Science Faculty and Students

Additional Print Resources

Turnbull, A. P., & Turnbull, H. R., III. (1997). Families, professionals, and exceptionality. Columbus, OH: Merrill. (Chapter 5, Family Characteristics; Chapter 6, Family Interaction; Chapter 7, Family Functions)

Online Resources

HACU (Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities) HACU promotes the development of member colleges and universities, and improves access to and the quality of postsecondary educational opportunities for Hispanic students.

KFF (Kaiser Family Foundation) In an effort to address the racial inequities in health care that exist today, KFF brought together leading public and private sector policymakers to review the evidence in race and medical care and discuss what can be done to address these inequities.

National Multicultural Institute is a good resource for materials.
3000 Connecticut Ave., NW, Suite 438, Washington, DC 20008-2556

NCCC (National Center for Cultural Competence) NCCC strives to increase the capacity of health care programs to design, implement, and evaluate culturally competent service delivery systems.

NHGRI (The National Human Genome Research Institute) has a Spanish "Talking Glossary of Genetics." Those seeking a better understanding of recent advances in genetics and genomics can benefit from this free, innovative combination of text, illustrations, and audio commentary. Students, teachers, and health professionals will find easy-to-understand explanations of key genetics terms.

NWHIC (National Women's Health Information Center) NWHIC is a one-stop gateway for women seeking health information. NWHIC is a free information and resource service on women’s health issues designed for consumers, health care professionals, researchers, educators, and students.

Office of Interprofessional Scholarship, Service, and Education - Creighton University

OMH-RC (Office of Minority Health Resource Center) OMH-RC serves as a national resource and referral service on minority health issues.

SACNAS (The Society for Advancement of Chicanos and Native Americans in Science) SACNAS is a diverse society with a vested interest in promoting opportunities in graduate science education for Chicano/Latino, Native American, and other students.

More Resource Links:

http://www.aacp.org/resources/education/Documents/02-04-10%20CulturalCompSelResourcesforInstruction_Updated_PDF.pdf